2. I pointed out that there was as yet no final agreement on guidelines to be followed for such interviews, it being my understanding that the Committee and Staff would reach a final decision on this on 6 June. Wallach agreed to hold off on interviews until guidelines are approved. It is clear, however, that it is just a matter of time before he will want to proceed.

3. Meanwhile, I told Wallach he would benefit from a briefing on the project here before interviewing relatively low-level personnel who might have no understanding of the origins and purposes of the program. He agreed to come to my office on Monday, 2 June at 0930 to get some background.

4. I intend to show him a summary of [REDACTED] done for the Rockefeller Commission.
